

DEMONSTRATED SUCCESS

Improving student learning by helping teachers do what they love

Even our logo is social distancing!

Effective Educator Teams

Finding time to engage in Effective Educator Teams is not an easy task, especially during these times. According to the Teaching and Learning International Survey (TALIS), American teachers spend more time, on

We're Growing

SubscribePast IssuesTranslate ▼RSS

teachers of other nations. Nonetheless, teamwork is critical for the success of teachers and their students.

In our most recent blog, we outline our process for creating Effective Educator Teams and maximizing the minimal time teachers have. Click here to read the full story.

Old Favorites

This weekend marks the end of National Children's Book Week! To celebrate, we have created a collage of some of our team members posing with their favorite children's books! Here are some of the books featured: Comet in Momminland; The Most Magnificent Thing; The Napping House; The Bugliest Bug; What Do You Do with a Problem?; The Jenkins, our newest Professional Development and School Specialist. With more than 15 years as an early elementary teacher, Heather is skilled in curriculum design and delivery; PLCs and data use; and ELA and math strategies.

Don't forget to check us out on YouTube for more educator related content.

SubscribePast IssuesTranslate ▼RSS

Different.

*Wishing Educators
Everywhere
a Relaxing
and Rejuvenating
Holiday. Happy
Thanksgiving!*

Remote Learning PD

According to MDR, the education arm of the research firm Dun and Bradstreet, 61% of teachers are asking for Remote Instruction PD.

To meet this need, Demonstrated Success has curated and delivered dozens of webinars to support educators with remote instruction. Visit our website to learn more about this program, as well as our new can be played at no cost on our YouTube Channel here.

What We're Reading

Extracurriculars Play a Vital Role During the Pandemic

Examining Learning through an Anti-Racist Lens

These Stanford students are racing to get laptops to kids around the U.S. who